Onsite Treatment

This is the foundation for your workplace injury prevention and management strategy. For musculoskeletal injuries in the workplace, early intervention can make a big difference in injury recovery time.

Our Onsite Treatment service can also be used to help workers already on a WorkCover claim get back to work sooner.

Onsite care = early intervention

The sooner an injured worker is treated, the better their chance of recovering faster and returning to normal duties. By having us onsite, your workers can visit our treatment room and return to their station without leaving the premises.

Treatments that our workplace health providers utilise include massage, musculoskeletal release, dry needling, functional integrative needling, taping, fascial release, rehabilitation, TENS (electrotherapy) and electro needling.

Our experienced workplace health providers understand the psychological impact of workplace injuries, and the stigma that can be attached. We look to instil patient trust and confidence, and encourage positive outlooks, which can often result in better treatment outcomes.

Why have Onsite Treatment?

- Injured workers can access healthcare immediately, at their workplace
- Prevent minor injuries from becoming LTIs or claims through early intervention
- Improve morale and maintain a healthy workforce
- Decrease absenteeism
- Get injured workers back to work sooner
- Decrease in WorkCover premiums
